STORMING THE GATES: Foes of the Marcos regime climbing the gates outside the presidential palace early yesterday in Manila.

MANILA, Philippines - Deposed President Ferdinand Marcos was flown by U.S. medical transport to Guam today, en route to exile from his homeland.

Guam's acting governor, Edward Reyes, said Marcos was scheduled to leave Guam for Honolulu by 6 a.m. PST. President Reagan has guaranteed Marcos "his peace, his safety and his dignity" in the United States.

Marcos, 68, was carried on a stretcher into the plane at Clark Air Base. Although he looked "very frail," he walked down the airplane staircase without assistance upon arrival in Guam, Reyes said.

After learning that Marcos had fled, a crowd stormed the gates of the presidential Malacanang Palace and began looting the ornate Spanish-style mansion. Thousands poured into the streets of Manila and other cities, while motorists honked horns and waved at each other.

At least one person was reported killed and 27 were injured yesterday and today, bringing the unofficial death toll in the four-day rebellion that toppled Marcos to 14, with another 55 reported injured, at least nine seriously.

YIELD POWER

Marcos, forced to yield power in the face of an insurgency growing from charges of fraud in the Feb. 7 presidential election against Corazon Aquino, fled the Philippines less than 12 hours after he insisted on taking the oath for another six-year term.

The man who dominated the Philippines since 1965 agreed to leave the nation and his office in exchange for safe passage for himself and his family.

The former president's wife, Imelda, and Marcos' former military chief of staff, Gen. Fabian Ver, flew on the same plane with Marcos. Another carried the other members of the Marcos party, which numbered 55 in all.

The United States immediately recognized the Aquino government.

BLACK MAN SAVES WALL STREET

The nation's top financiers owe their ability to conduct business in New York's Wall Street area to a Black man. During the Great Fire of 1835, firemen's efforts to control the Wall Street blaze was thwarted when the water in their hoses froze. Thomas Downing, a Black restaurant owner at the corner of Broad and Wall Streets, supplied the firemen with a large quantity of vinegar he had stored. Downing's quick wit not only put out the fire, but saved America's most famous financial district from total destruction.

LOOKING BACK IN BLACK HISTORY

Abraham Lincoln

July 22, 1862—President Abraham Lincoln submits a draft of the Emancipation Proclamation, which later abolished slavery. Ironically, it was not passed by Congress until after the Civil War.

August 1, 1867—Blacks vote for the first time in a state election and play a significant part in a Republican sweep in Tennessee.

September 9, 1915—Association for the Study of Negro Life And History is organized in Chicago. Founded by Carter G. Woodson, the founder of Black History Month, the Association became the major center for the dissemination of information on Black History. During the 1960s, the Association changed its name to the Association of Afro-American Life And History.

Gorton

ment Block Grant (CDBG) program provides federal assistance for local sewer and water projects, as well as for health clinics, elderly food programs and public housing.

"Although I firmly believe that we need to take bold steps to bring federal spending under control," Gorton told the Senate, "the Administration's decision is simply unfair to cities and counties that have already planned comunity development projects for 1986."

He said the nation's communities have already participated in deficit reduction efforts for 1986 by taking both a ten percent budget cut from 1985 funding levels and a further 5 percent Gramm-Rudman-Hollings reduction in 1986 funding.

"Our cities and counties hesitantly accepted these cuts and planned their 1986 programs around them. But it now is simply unfair to place the burden of an additional 16 percent cut on them at this late date," Gorton said. "Communities in Washington and other states have made commitments to social service agencies to manage the emergency food, shelter and health needs of their homeless and low-income citizens."

He said the late and unanticipated "deferral means that Seattle will be unable to provide 22,000 meals to low-income elderly citizens and that it will lose about 13,000 bednights of shelter. The city will be forced to locate outside sources of funds or face closure of some of the ten health clnics supported with CDBG funds.

"Likewise, the budgets for emergency shelter programs for families and youth in Kenmore, Kent, Renton, and Issaquah also will be thrown into chaos by the deferral," he said.

"Yelm, Wilson Creek, Bucota and twelve other small Washington state cities have geared up to start desperately needed sewer and water improvements. The cities of Wapato and Thurston have prepared to begin construction on important low and moderate-income housing projects," Gorton said.

"The total cost to cities and counties in Washington state would be more than $6 million. It simply is unfair to force such projects off the planning sheets with this late decision.

"In our efforts to reduce federal deficits, this Congress very well may have to take a hard look at the mix of federal programs aimed at community and rural development," he said. "We must not inflict, however, unanticipated and counterproductive blows on the planning processes of our state and local governments."

Senate Approves Fleming Bill On Deadly Force.

(Olympia) Unlike last year's heavy debate and Senate rejection of Senator George Fleming's proposal to establish guidelines on deadly force by police officers, the measure passed this year with little debate and minimal opposition, by a 40-7 vote.

"What a difference a year and a Supreme Court ruling make," Fleming noted with a smile.

The decision he refers to is Garner vs. Tennessee, in which the United State Supreme ruled that deadly force could not be used in the case of a fleeing felon who demonstrated no apparent threat to the officer.

"We've now brought Washington State into conformity with federal law, something I had urged the legislature to do last year," said the 37th District Senator.

The bill (SB 4465) sponsored by Senators Fleming and Phil Talmadge (both D-Seattle), says deadly force can only be used if a law enforcement officer has probable cause that the suspect, if not apprehended, poses a threat of serious physical harm to the officer or others.

Talmadge said the Supreme Court ruling concerned a case in Tenessee in which a 15-year-old boy was shot and killed by a police officer as the youth tried to flee, with no apparent threat to the officer.

Talmadge noted that the Seattle Police Department already complies with the intent of the bill approved today.

One of the circumstances which may be considered as a threat of serious physical harm is when the suspect threatens an officer with a weapon or displays a weapon in a manner that could reasonably be construed as threatening.

Under Fleming's bill, which now goes to the House for concurrence, is the addition of third degree rape to the list of dangerous felonies.

"Current state law allows the use of deadly force to stop any fleeing felon, including people who commit relatively minor crimes," Fleming stated. "It's easy to replace a stolen television set, for example, but you cannot replace a human life."

Fleming noted that law enforcement officers "want the legislature to make determination on this controversial issue. They do not want to operate under a system that permits deadly force to be used to stop the commission of relatively minor crimes."

Gorton Opposes Administration Cuts

Tacoma will lose more than $376,000 in 1986 if a new federal cutback in aid to the nation's cities and counties is implemented. U.S. Senator Slade Gorton today says that he will oppose the proposal because it "would place an unfair burden on cities and counties in our state and through out the nation."

Gorton today cosponsored a bill in the Seante to disapprove an Administration "deferral" of $500 million in 1986 spending by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) until the 1987 fiscal year. The HUD Community Develop-

King County Renamed In Honor Of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

SEATTLE -- King County, which was named in 1852 for slave-owning, vice-presidential candidate William Rufus DeVane King, is now renamed King County - in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the civil rights leader.

"It won't cost a dime," said County Council member Ron Sims, one of two council members who introduced the motion to rename the county. The motion passed Monday 5-4.

Actually, he said, there might be some expenses, but they would be few. "The paper-work involved is basically for purposes of historians," Sims said.

The name change is effective immediately.

Those opposing the change believed in maintaining the status quo, or said their constituents weren't in favor of it, Sims said.

Those in favor, he said, believe "Martin Luther King

Mayor Tom To Hit Campaign Trail Again

SACRAMENTO, Calif. - Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley formaly launched his second campaign for governor yesterday and labeled Republican Gov. George Deukmejian "a caretaker for the rich and privileged."

In his formal announcement of his campaign for the Democratic nomination, the 68-year-old former police lieutenant and son of a black Texas sharecropper stressed his humble beginnings and the opportunities California gave him as a youth.

Bradley promised to give top priorities to education, crime, the environment and consumer protections.

Annual Report Of Earnings Due April 15th

Annual Reports of 1985 earnings must be filed by April 15 by people receiving Social Security checks and who earned more than the annual exempt amount in 1985, William Ross, Social Security manager in Tacoma, said recently.

The 1985 annual exempt amounts were $5,400 for people who were under 65 all of 1985 and $7,320 for people who were 65-70 in 1985.

People who received some benefits in 1985 and who earned more than the exempt amount are required to file a report

Words Of Wisdom

PSALMS 35

Plead my cause, O Lord, with them that strive with me: fight against them that fight against me.

Take hold of shield and buckler, and stand up for mine help.

Draw out also the spear, and stop the way against them that persecute me: say unto my soul, I am thy salavation.

Let them be confounded and put to shame that seek after my soul: let them be turned back and brought to confusion that devise my hurt.

Let them be as chaff before the wind: and let the angel of the Lord chase them.

Let their way be dark and slippery: and let the angel of the Lord persecute them.

For without cause have they hid for me their net in a pit, which without cause they ahve digged for my soul.

Let destruction come upon him at unawares; and let his net that he hath hid catch himself: into that very destruction let him fall.

And my soul shall be joyful in the Lord: it shall rejoice in his salvation.

All my bones shall say, Lord, who is like unto thee, which deliverest the poor from him that is too strong for him, yea, the poor and the needy from him that spoileth him?

False witnesses did rise up; they laid to my charge things that I knew not.

They rewarded me evil for good to the spoiling of my soul.

But as for me, when they were sick, my clothing was sackcloth: I humbled my soul with fasting; and my prayer returned into mine own bosom.

I behaved myself as though he had been my friend or brother: I bowed down heavily, as one that mourneth for his mother.

But in mine adversity they rejoiced, and gathered themselves together: yea, the abjects gathered themselves together against me, and I knew it not; they did tear me, and ceased not:

With hypocritical mockers in feasts, they gnashed upon me with their teeth.

Lord, how long wilt thou look on? rescue my soul from their destructions, my darling from the lions

I will give thee thanks in the great congregation: I will praise thee among much people.

Let not them that are mine enemies wrongfully rejoice over me: neither let them wink with the eye that hate me without a cause.

For they speak not peace: but they devise deceitful matters against them that are quiet in the land.

Yea, they opened their mouth wide against me, and said, Aha, aha, our eye hath seen it.

This thou has seen, O Lord: keep not silence: O Lord, be not far from me.

Stir up thyself, and awake to my judgment, even unto my cause, my God and my Lord.

Judge me, O Lord my God, according to thy righteousness; and let them not rejoice over me.

Let them not say in their hearts, Ah, so would we have it: let them not say, We have swallowed him up.

Let them be ashamed and brought to confusion together that rejoice at mine hurt: let them be clothed with shame and dishonour that magnify themselves against me.

Let them shout for joy, and be glad, that favour my righteous cause: yea, let them say continually, Let the Lord be magnified, which hath pleasure in the prosperity of his servant.

And my tongue shall speak of thy rightousness and of thy praise all the day long.

PSALM 36:1-6

The transgression of the wicked saith within my heart, that there is no fear of God before his eyes.

For he flattereth himself in his own eyes, until his iniquity be found to be hateful.

The words of his mouth are iniquity and deceit: he hath left of to be wise, and to do good.

He deviseth mischief upon his bed; he setteth himself in a way that is not good; he abhorreth not evil.

Thy mercy, O Lord, is in the heavens; and thy faithfulness reacheth unto the clouds.

Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep: O Lord, thou perservest man and beast.

Tickets On Sale For Seattle Slew

Pacific Northwest Ballet's March 5-8 program will feature the world premiere of Artistic Director Kent Stowell's SEATTLE SLEW set to a commissioned score by composer William Bolcom. Tickets are now on sale at all TICKETMASTER outlets, 628-0888.

A Pacific Northwest Ballet premiere of George Balanchine's STRAVINSKY VIOLIN CONCERTO will also be presented during the March program. Set to the music of Igor Stravinsky, the work was first performed by New York City Ballet at the Stravinsky Festival in 1972. The premiere of the music was conducted by Stravinsky in 1931 with Samuel Dushkin as soloist. PNB Concertmaster Walter Schwede will perform the violin solo for the March program.

"VIOLIN CONCERTO is the most important masterpiece to come out of the Stravinsky Festival in 1972," added Artistic Director Francia Russell. "We are most fortunate to have Karin von Aroldingen, who performed the world premiere of VIOLIN CONCERTO, working with our Company on this ballet because she remembers what Mr. Balanchine's thoughts were while creating the work. Alaina Albertson, Gerard Ebitz, Lucinda Hughey and Wade Walthall will perform the principal parts. All four are well suited in ability and physical type for these roles."

PNB Music Director Stewart Kershaw will conduct members of the Seattle Symphony for the five performances: Wednesday, March 5 through Friday, March 7 at 8 p.m. and on Saturday, March 8 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Ticket prices range from $8 to $30 and can be purchased at all TICKETMASTER outlets. To charge by phone call 628-0888 in Seattle or 272-6817 in Tacoma.

Teams of 7th and 8th grade students from Tacoma, Puyallup, Miltona and Peninsula junior high schools will compete at Fort Steilacoom Community College March 8 in chapter contests of the national MATHCOUNTS program. The contest has been organized by the Tacoma-Pierce County chapter of the National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE).

Schools represented are Ford and Keithley Middle Schools, Tacoma; Kalles Junior High School, Puyallup; Surprise Lake Middle School, Milton; and Kipachuck Middle School, Penisula.

Teachers and students have been preparing for the competition all year. Each school will send four students, who will be tested on such topics as probability, statistics, linear algebra and polynomials. The program consists of written tests and fast-paced oral matches.

Winners of the chapter contests will compete in the state competition, to be held at North Seattle Community college in April.

MATHCOUNTS is a nationwide program designed to answer the Problem of declining math skills among students at the precollege level. National sponsors of MATHCOUNTS are the National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE), the CNA Insurance Companies, The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM), and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Learn How To Become A "Science Explainer"

The Fred Meyer Foundation has awarded a grant to the Pacific Science Center for the recruitment and training of retired persons to work as volunteers. The "Science Explainer" Program offers volunteers an opportunity to make a significant volunteer contribution to the Puget Sound community and to expand their own educational horizons in the fields of science, mathematics and technology.

Volunteers will participate in a three part training program in science, math and technology, we well as ongoing monthly training opportunities once they have commenced regularly scheduled work at the Science Center. Training will be provided by guest presenters from local universities and Pacific Science Center staff.

The "Science Explainers" Program begins in March with vlunteers starting scheduled work by April 1, 1986. Typical time commitment for "Science Explainers" is one day a week, 10:00 - 4:00 pm. People of all ages and interests are encouraged to apply. For the variety of volunteer positions available, to apply or to find out more about becoming a Pacific Science Center volunteer, call Ted Cox at (206)443-

Act Volunteers To Discuss Move Downtown

Stage Hands, the volunteer service organization for A Contemporary Theatre, invites interested persons to attend its March potluck supper and general meeting on March 5th. The group will discuss ACT's recent announcement of its plans to move downtown in 1988.

Special guests for the discussion are John C. Ashton, President of the ACT Board of Directors, and Phil Schermer, ACT's Producing Manager.

The potluck supper begins at 6:30 p.m., followed by the meeting at 7:30; both in ACT's first-floor rehearsal room. ACT is located at the corner of 1st AVE. W. & W. Roy St., at the foot of Queen Anne Hill, near the Seattle Center.

For more information, call Frank Fleetham at 525-1295 or Teri Law at 621-8400.

Tired Of Smoking? Do Something About It

Tired of smoking? Group Health Cooperative of Puget Sound's Center for Health Promotion will offer a class to Tacoma residents March 10 to help smokers kick the habit.

Beginning at 7 p.m. at GHC's Tacoma Medical Center, 1112 So. Cushman, the class, which is taught by a former smoker, uses techniques that appeal to all five senses.

Crime Stoppers

This week, Crimestoppers will pay up to a $1,000.00 cash reward for information that leads authorities to the arrest and felony charges filed in the following crime.

For the past several months, Tacoma Police and the Pierce County Sheriff's Office have been plagued by numerous residential robbery reports.

The victims have ranged in age from the young to the elderly. Some have been victims more than once and some have been injured and asaulted during these robberies.

The Pierce County Sheriff's Office and the Tacoma Police Department need your assistance in putting an end to these crimes. Become involved, start a Neighborhood Watch, get a free home inspection and learn how to safeguard your valuables. If you reside in Tacoma, phone the Tacoma Police Department Crime Prevention Unit at 591-5915. Pierce County residents phone 593-4269 for the Pierce County Sheriff's Crime Prevention Office.

If you have information on these robbers call the Tacoma Pierce County Crime Stoppers at 591-5959. Callers need not give their names and all calls are kept strictly confidential.

Crime Stoppers also pays cash rewards for information that leads to an arrest and charges filed in any other felony crime.

Come To Church Services

I JOHN 3:

Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.

Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

Whosoever committeth sin trangresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law.

And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin.

Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

He that committeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil.

Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

KITSAP TRANSIT
Notice of Public Hearing
for U.M.T.A. Federal Grant

1. Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held at Kitsap Transit as part of the Board of Commissioners meeting on March 5, 1986. The hearing will be held at the Kitsap Golf and Country Club, 8000 Golf Club Hill Road, Bremerton, WA 98310 at 8:30 a.m. The purpose of the hearing is to consider an application to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration for financial assistance. The project is generally described as follows:

A) DESCRIPTION OF PROJECT

1) Acquisition of land surrounding Kitsap Transit maintenance facility located at 234 South Wycoff, Bremerton, Washington. The federal share is $96,000 and the local share is $24,000 for a total of $120,000.

2) Rehabilitation of maintenance facility including Faclity Analysis. The federal share is $275,200 and the local share is $68,800 for a total of $344,000.

B) RELOCATION

It is anticipated that people, families and businesses as described in the project application will be displaced by this project. People, families and businesses so displaced will be afforded rights as required by the Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970.

C) ENVIRONMENT

An environmental assessment has been developed and it has been determined that there will not be a significant environmental impact upon the urban area.

D) COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING

This project is in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in the area and is consistent with the adopted programming of projects in the Transportation Improvement Program and has been submitted to the Puget Sound Council of Governments and the State Department of Transportation for review.

E) ELDERLY AND HANDICAPPED

The project will meet the needs of the people who, without such accessible services, would find it impossible to use public transportation. Kitsap Transit shall assure a reasonable level of mobility for the disabled residents of the service area by providing a system of accessible door-to-door services which shall be offered with operating hours and fares comparable to other transit services. Kitsap Transit will offer off-peak fares that are one-half of the peak hour fare.

II. At the hearing Kitsap Transit Commissioners will afford an opportunity for interested persons or agencies to be heard with respect to the social, environmental and economic aspects of the project. Interested persons may submit orally, or in writing, evidence and recommendations with respect to said project.

III. Copies of the Grant and the Transportation Improvement Program for the area will be available for public inspection at Kitsap Transit headquarters, 234 South Wycoff, Bremerton, WA 98312. Written comments may be sent to the same address.

IV. Specialized transportation and interpreter for the deaf will be provided upon request with a minimum of 5 days notice.

Clerk of the Board

About Your Social Security

Tacoma/Pierce County residents needing help in preparing 1985 tax forms should have no excuse or not getting it done by April 15 this year.

Along with the local tax preparers, the IRS has several combined programs to help - VOLUNTEER INCOME TAX ASSISTANCE (VITA), a volunteer assist program for taxpayers with special needs - low-income, non-English speaing, handicapped, and ederly taxpayers and TAX COUNSELING for the ELDERLY (TCE) a program for persons age 60 or over, with the special tax problems of the edlerly.

VITA volunteers are trained by IRS. They alert special needs taxpayers to the credits and deductions for which they may be eligible, such as the child care and earned income credits, the tax credit for the elderly and the totally disabled, and itemized deductions.

Complicated tax issues such as capital gains, business expensed and the like are not covered at VITA centers.

A taxpayer coming to the VITA center should bring this year's tax package, usually received through the mail, wage and earnings statements (Form W-2) received from employers, interest statements from banks (Form 1099), a copy of the last year's tax return if available, and any other relevant information concerning income and expenses.

The locations of local VITA Centers are:

Special Performance At Meany Theatre

SEATTLE -- A special performance featuring cellist Yo-Yo Ma with pianist Emanuel Ax will be presented Saturday, March 8 at 8 p.m. in Meany Theater on the UW campus. The joint recital is being offered in connection with the Eighth Anual International Chamber Music Series at Meany.

Both Emanuel Ax and Yo-Yo Ma are considered masters of their instruments. Each has performed with major orchestras and has played recitals and performed chamber music worldwide. Each has been the recipient of the prestigious Avery Fisher Prize (Ma in 1978, Ax in 1979). They joined forces in 1980 and since then have given a limited number of joint recitals every season, in addition to pursuing solo careers.

In their Seattle appearance, Ax and Ma will perform Beethoven's Sonata in G minor, Opus 5, No. 2; Britten's Sonata in C Major, Opus 65; and Rachmaninov's Sonata in G minor, Opus 19.

Polish-born Emanuel Ax studied in the Pre-College Division of ulliard and graduated from Columbia University where he majored in French. His only piano teacher was Mieczylaw Munz. Ax came into public view in 1974 when he won the First Arthur Rubinstein International Piano Competition held in Tel Aviv. Five years later, he captured the coveted Avery Fisher Prize. Ax has appeared with the New York Philharmonic, Detroit Symphony, Pittsburgh Symphony, and National Symphony. His many New York City engagements include a Carnegie Hall recital and performances with the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center. In Europe, he toured with Leonard Slatkin and the St. Louis Symphony and appeared with the Royal Philharmonic under the direction of Andre Previn.

Yo-Yo Ma was born in Paris in 1955 of Chinese parents. He began his cello studies at age four with his father and gave his first public cello recital at age five. Later he studied with Janos Scholz and in 1962 entered the Juilliard School and began his studies with Leonard Rose. By age nineteen he was being compared with such masters as Rostropovich and Casals. Since winning the Avery Fisher Prize in 1978, he has appeared with all the major orchestras through out the world, including the Berlin Philharmonic, Boston Smphony, Chicago Symphony, Israel Philharmonic, London Symphony, and the New York Philharmonic.

Yo-Yo Ma and Emanuel Ax have performed in joint recitals in New York City at Avery Fisher Hall and Carnegie Hall and at the festivals of Tangelwood, Hollywood Bowl, and Ravinia.

Emanuel Ax has been described by the Chicago Tribune as "One of the more important artists of his generation," and by the New York Times as "A pianist with spectacular fingers and a distinct poetic gift." Critics have been equally enthusiastic in their praises of Yo-Yo Ma. "For as long as he is playing, it becomes very difficult for a listener to think that any cellist today could possibly surpass him," reported the New York Times. The Boston Globe called their joint performance "One of the great musical occasions of a lifetime."

Reserved tickets for the special performance of Emanuel Ax and Yo-Yo Ma Saturday, March 8 at 8 p.m. in Meany Theater may be purchased by calling 543-4880.

Duvalier Unhappy In Paris

PARIS, - Jean-Claude Duvalier and the owner of the luxury hotel where he is staying both filed law-suits with identical objectives today: getting the deposed Haitian dictator out of the hotel.

Mr. Duvalier and his family brought an action here against Foreign Minister Roland Dumas and Interior Minister Pierre Joxe, accusing them of violating the Duvaliers' right to liberty by effectively holding them prisoner in the heavily guardd hotel at Talloires in the French Alps. They ahve been there ever since a United States Air Force C-141 cargo plane brought them to France from Haiti on Feb. 7.

Mr. Duvalier is paying for the entire 45-room hotel where he has been secreted away behind a heavy police guard since the French Government said he could stay eight days, but no more.

RESERVATIONS CANCELED

Mr. Tiffenat says he has reservations from regular visitors and business groups that he is being forced to cancel. "When he came here, I was asked to put up a head of state," he said. "I accepted without knowing who it really was."

"Former President Duvalier wants to go too," he continued. "But the decision is not up to him."

Since the deposed Haitian ruler arrived in France, the United State and just about every other in the world has declined to provide a permanent home for him. As a result, the French Government finds itself in the increasingly awkward position of being unable to put into effect its repeated pledge to expel him.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

To make matters worse, the official campaign for the March 16 French parliamentary elections has now begun, leaving the Government vulnerable to charges of diplomatic incompetence for having accepted President Reagan's request to take in Mr. Duvalier in the first place and then finding itself unable to get rid of him.

ASYLUM REQUEST REJECTED

Court documents filed by the Duvaliers declared that the strict security in force around the hotel, which had been justified as necessary for their safety, was now clearly intended "to hold them prisoner" and thus infringed their "individual right to liberty."

Mr. Duvalier's lawyer, Sauveur Vaisse, said that he was bringing the case "to see whether the Government will stand by its own laws and insure everybody's right to individual freedom."

Mr. Duvalier's request for asylum has already been formally rejected by the French administrative body that considers such requests. But the French Government, which is committed to expelling him from France, cannot do so because it has been unable to find another country willing to take him.

On Monday, Prime Minister Laurent Fabius again criticized the United States for not taking in Mr. Duvalier, saying it was "not right" for America to refuse him asylum when France had told Washington it would give him only temporary refuge. United States spokesmen deny this, saying Mr. Duvalier made it clear to them all along that he wanted to go into exile only in France.

In a weekend telephone interview with a French radio station, Mr. Duvalier confirmed this version of his flight from Haiti, saying, "At no moment did I ever understand that my stay in France would be temporary and that I could be expelled with my family without our consent."

SAYS HE WANTS QUIET LIFE

He continued, "I insist that if I didn't believe that the only country to which I feel close would receive me, would not have given up power."

Mr. Duvalier said he had given up politics for good and wanted to live quietly in France and continue his education.

Besides his wife and four children, Mr. Duvalier is now accompanied only by his sister-in-law, Joanne Thisfeld, her German-born husband, Hans, and their two children, as well as by his mother and the children's nanny. The other members of the party that accompanied him into exile have left Talloires for different countries in Europe or the United States.

Mr. Duvalier and close members of his family are believed to own several properites in France, including a chateau outside Paris, an appartment in the fashionable Paris suburb of neuilly and a villa in Nice.

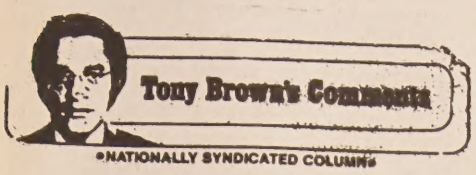
EDITORIALS, VIEWS COMMENTS



(Black Ideals Needed On TV)

Of 1,359 Black athletes who entered White colleges and universities in 1977, only 14 percent graduated in four years, 27 percent in five and a mere 31 percent made it out in six years. Of the White athletes in the same study, 53 percent graduated in six years.

Are White athletes smarter than Black athletes? Why is it that, based on this study, that 29 percent of the ghetto mercenaries at these White schools never get a degree from the institutions for which they earn millions of dollars?

And why is it that the Black community is so complacent about this expoitative process?

To air the views of everyday Black people on this subject and others, I am developing a new television format that will invite peopls from across the country to join myself and expert guests and ask (and answer) questions. This new (new for Black People) format will elicit a broader-Black view for television.

Subjects that need to be talked-out on TV by African-Americans are "The Color Purple," babies having babies, AIDS and the subject of the exploited Black athlete, mentioned above.

There are others. Jesse Jackson is planning to run for the Democratic nomination for president. Should he? If so, can he win? Do you betray the Black community, if you do not support Jackson? Did Jackson let Blacks down that last time? What should his platform be?

Farrakhan. Why is he so popular among a certain segment of Blacks? What about his relationship of Kaddafy, the terrorist (by his own admission)? Should Blacks, as Jews ask, repudiate Farrakhan? What is the status of his economic plan?

Black men. Are they as sad as Black feminist writers say they are. Should Black women look for love instead, in lesbian affairs? Should Black men who refuse to financially support their children go to jail? Is pregnancy the woman's responsibility?

Although we are doing very well in television entertainment, there is a paucity of Black ideas being disseminated. It is also important that Blacks from all walks of life be seen discussing important issues.

How can you become a part of the solution? My series will begin to produce programs before an audience--with audience participation. Most of them will be taped in a New York studio. If you are interested, contact us at 1501 Broadway, Suite 2014, NY 10036. We can process your request and inform you if there is room available and the subject matter for that date.

Because of security precautions, the date and place of the taping cannot be made public. We also welcome your suggestions for subject matter. Remember, however, that court cases and various legal charges and challenges are not suitable suggestions--neither are attacks on individuals.

We plan to create a new breakthrough for Black thought on television. Join me on our 241 public television stations as a beginning.

TONY BROWN'S JOURNAL TV series can be seen on public television Saturday, on Channel 9 at 12 noon. It can also be seen on channel 62, Thursday at 10:30 p.m. Consult listings.

Amended Child Care Bill Passes Senate

(Olympia) A measure to permit local school districts to operate child care programs in public schools if they wish, was approved by the Senate, but only after several crippling amendments were added.

Senator Win Granlund (D-Port Orchard), prime sponsor of the child care bill (SB 4941), urged passage "despite the detrimental amendments, because there are still important policy decisions contained in the bill."

The original intent of Granlund's bill was to clarify existing law to give local school districts authority to operate day care programs before, during and after school hours.

"The decision for local school districts to establish a program of child care is clearly permissive," Granlund stressed during floor debate. "There is no requirement for districts to offer child care, but the measure simply gives them that option, should the district decide that is what it wants to do."

However, an amendment passed, which would not allow operation of day care during school hours.

Granlund said the amendment would force teenage parents out of the program, since those young parents would not have day care available while they continue their studies.

"We should be encouraging those teenage mothers who have young children to continue their education," Granlund, a former high school principal, said. "If we take away this opportunity, then we can expect a number of young parents turning to welfare support, which will have a costly impact on the state in the future."

Granlund said the measure is important "because it clarifies the authority of local school districts to operate and conduct child care programs. The local districts would then have the option to seek funding for child care through local special levies and by the acceptance of gifts and grants."

The measure further requires those schools who wish to institute such progams to study the need before instituting child care.

Granlund said he is pleased that the measure did pass by a 29-19 vote, so the bill can go to the House, where the amendments to the bill can be heard, considered and "hopefully removed from the bill."

Tired Of Those Irritating Phone Calls, Help Is On The Way

OLYMPIA -- Those irritating sales calls you get over the telephone would be controlled under a bill passed by the House of Representatives.

"People are sick and tired of being harassed at home by high-pressure sales pitches over the phone," said Rep. Art Wang, D-Tacoma, who sponsored the bill. "When people are relaxing at home, the last thing they want is an annoying phone call."

Last year a bill sponsored by Wang called for a study of telephone solicitation by the Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission. The study found that 75 percent of the public favored the regulation of soliciting over the telephone.

"The study made it clear that people don't want junk calls," said Wang.

Under House Bill 1678, solicitation callers would be required to identify themselves, along with the purpose of the call, within the first 30 seconds. If a person says that he or she doesn't want to be called again, the person's name must be removed from the company's or organization's phone list. Also, those names can't be sold to another company or organization.

"Unfortunately, this bill would not completely eliminate telephone solicitation. But it's a good start and it should reduce the number of calls people receive," said Wang.

"People are going to have a lot more information about the callers, so they can decide whether they want to keep listening or hang up."

What You Should Know About The "Other Exchanges"

The New York Stock Exchange (also called the Big Board) is the exchange most familiar to investors. It is the dominant market for stocks in the United States because the oldest and largest corporations, which are usually the core of institutional and individual portfolios, trade on it.

The NYSE's requirements for listing a stock are stiffer than those of other U.S. stock exchanges and markets. This provides investors some assurance (but no guarantee, of course) that listed companies are financially sound. In addition, the large volume of shares traded on the NYSE makes for a highly liquid market. That means a broker can almost always execute an investor's buy or sell order very quickly, at a price within 12 1/2 cents of the previous transaction's price. And most NYSE issues are widely followed by securities analysts, so investors can easily obtain information from their brokerage firm.

Nevertheless, there are many excellent investment opportunities among companies not listed on the NYSE. It is a mistake to avoid stocks traded elsewhere because you fear they are inherently risky or you are unfamiliar with the other markets.

The American Stock Exchange (or AMEX) is the only other national stock exchange. There are also 10 regional exchanges, such as the Midwest and Pacific Stock Exchanges, and some corporations list on both a regional and a national exchange.

Stocks of some well-known companies such as Hormel, Wang Laboratories and Imperial Oil trade on AMEX. The bulk of AMEX stocks, though, are smaller, newer corporations, because the listing requirements are somewhat less stringent than those of the NYSE. Still, most AMEX issues would not be categorized as highly speculative. Investors who trade AMEX issues also enjoy good liquidity and tight pricing, although many AMEX issues receive less attention from securities analysts.

The over-the-counter (OTC) market is where all new and formerly private corporations go public. The OTC has undergone numerous changes and improvements over the last ten years, and has grown more than all other security markets combined. Due to this evolution, the OTC is now being called the National Market System (NMS), and more stocks list on it than on all of the other exchanges in the U.S. combined.

There are approximately 1500 NMS companies that could be listed on either of the other major exchanges, but don't choose to be. These include companies like Apple, MCI Communications and Toyota. Indeed, every industry is traded in the National Market System from some of the smallest to some of the largest companies in those industries. Investors, therefore, have the opportunity not only to buy the Blue Chips, but the emerging growth stocks or possible future Blue Chips as well.

The main difference between the NMS and the exchanges is that the NMS does not have a central trading floor where prices are set through auction bidding. Instead, NMS shares are traded over computer screens and telephones by individuals known as "broker/dealers," because they can act in either capacity on behalf of their clients. Many NMS stocks (those whose issuers meet the financial requirements of the National Association of Security Dealers) are quoted over the Association's computerized system, known as NASDAQ.

The NMS computerized trading system is one of the most advanced of its kind. As an example, with Shearson Lehman Brothers' Automatic Execution System, market orders for 2,000 shares or less often are automatically executed within two seconds. Delay and error virtually have been eliminated.

A broker/dealer can fill a client's order for a particular stock (known as "making a market" in that stock), the order is filled from the inventory.

If the firm is not a "market maker" in the stock, and the stock is quoted on the NASDAQ System, the broker/dealer obtains the names and "bid and asked" quotations of all market makers in that stock on a computer screen. (The "bid is simply the most anyone will sell.)

Then the broker/dealer calls the market maker offering the best quote, negotiates a price and buys the stock for the customer.

In most respects, there is no difference in the types of stocks traded on any exchange or in the NMS. In fact, many state, as well as institutional investors, do not distinguish between them. Also, because over 20 percent of the Fortune 1,000 companies are traded in the NMS, it is easy to understand why research analysts choose stocks based on their merits only and not because of where they are traded.

Whether trading in NMS, NYSE or AMEX stocks, the best way to determine the upside potential of any investment is through the research and guidance of an experienced Financial Consultant.

United Way Developes Parents Guide To Finding Proper Child Care

United Way of Pierce County

Concerned parents, child care professionals and volunteer experts have put together a guide to help parents make good decisions about finding child day care. The brochure, entitled, "Child Care: What you need to know about care for your child," was developed by the United Way of Pierce County Child Care Task Force, comprised of 21 local volunteers.

As parents increasingly rely on day care for their children, the brochure explains, the more parents need to be aware of how the agency is run. Detailed explanations on day care center licensing requirements, and the types of day care available are given in the brochure.

"Safety of the individual child is the main reason for the development of the brochure," Ken Ristine, United Way planing and allocations director, said. Ristine, who helped see the brochure into publication, said that parents need to be assured that their children receive proper care while they are apart. Information contained in the brochure helps parents select appropriate care for their children.

A checklist of items for parents to be aware of when choosing child care is provided, including trusting first impressions, inspecting health safety and investigating program activities. Listed are responsibilities that parents should oblige to, such as leaving addresses or phone numbers with care-givers and letting care-takers know if anyone besides parents, have permission to leave with the child.

Information regarding the mistreatment of children at centers, and signs of mistreatment or abuse is given in the brochure. Also, key phone numbers to call if children are suspected of being mistreated are listed.

Paul Tanaka, chairman of the task force that developed the brochure, said, "Every day thousands of children, and their parents, use day care in Pierce County. Only a few times a year do we hear about problems. We think that the pointers in this brochure can help parents protect their children against even that very small chance of a problem."

Other members of the task force included staff members and board presidents of United Way-funded day care centers and abuse prevention agencies, volunteers involved with funding for day care centers and members of governmental agencies dealing with children and safety.

United Way-funded day care centers throughout Pierce County are offered to parents if they work or are in job training programs. Many parents wouldn't be able to work and simultaneously care for their children if the centers did not exist.

Tacoma Day Nursery Association, which cares for 72 children between the ages of 2½ to 6, is one of six local United Way agencies offering day care. Executive Director Rosmary Totten said that her agency, at 74 years old, is one of the oldest United Way agencies. Totten refers to the agency as the "grandparent of day care in Tacoma."

"It amazes me that after all these years the basics are still needed in order to provide good, quality day care," she said. The basics, Totten said, include placing a child in a safe, clean environment that provides good nutrition and early creation of self-esteem. Tacoma Day Nursery maintains a ratio of one teacher for eight children, she said.

More than 70 percent of the children at Tacoma Day Nursery are from single-parent families. United Way provides 38 percent of the funding for the agency. Because of the money received from United Way and other funding sources, Tacoma Day Nursery can offer parents sliding-fee scale based on annual income, Totten said. "Every parent needs quality care for their child when they have to be away," she said.

Puyallup Playcare Center is another United Way-funded agency offering day care services. Executive Director Donna Atkinson, who served on the child care task force, said that 65 children receive care at her agency. Developmental care is given to children ages 2½ to 7 from families if parents work or are in job training programs. The majority of the families served are from the Puyallup Valley area, she said.

About 60 percent of the children the agency serves are from low-income families, Atkinson said. The sliding-fee scale used by the agency ensures that families pay what they can afford for child care based on their annual salaries, she said. Many families, especially those with single heads of households, cannot afford to work and also pay full costs of day care.

Four other United Way agencies provide day care services throughout Pierce County. They are: Eastside Community Day Care Center, Hilltop Community Day Care Center, Peninsula Child Care Center and the Salvation Army. Last year, 924 local children used United Way-funded day care centers.

Child care brochures, printed as a community service by the Tacoma News Tribune, may be obtained by calling a United Way day care agency, by visiting a branch of your local library or by calling the United Way of Pierce County office at 272-4263.

Oil Helps Warms Washington Family

OLYMPIA, WA. -- Oil HELP is Washington State's only weatherization program created specifically for the oil heat user.

The Washington State Energy Office pays the interest on weatherization loans of up to $5,000. The interest-free loans cover energy-saving options such as insulation, weather stripping, storm windows and furnace efficiency improvements. Installation of the complete package could reduce a family's heating bills by up to two-thirds! Though the program has been in operation only a few months, the results are proving successful.

Mr. and Mrs. James Prudente of Spokane recently installed a new furnace burner and liner in their 3-bedroom ranch-style house and have had nothing but praise for the program. "The loan procedure wasn't complicated and the paperwork was easy," says Prudente. "Once the forms were turned in, everything was completed within a week." The Prudentes are enthusiastic about the program and have told fellow workers about it.

Notified of the program through their oil dealer, the Prudentes joined Horizon Federal Credit Union to meet the eligibility requirements. They were the very first family to sign up for the program through Horizon Federal. Since they received Oil HELP in late September, the Prudentes have enjoyed a warm home and are confident they'll see savings when they receive their next oil fill-up.

The loans are designed for owners of oil-heated homes or small businesses located in former residences. They are available through participating credit unions. For more information, contact the Oil HEAT Institute nearest you in Spokane, Seattle, or Vancouver.

Earnings

of tose earnings by April 15. Those who received no benefits in 1985 are not required to file a report, but, those people should file a report to make sure that any benefits that might be due for the year are paid, Ross said.

A person who earned less than anticipated, for example, may be due some benefits. The only way these benefits can be paid is if the person files an annual report.

The general rule is that $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above the exempt amount. A person can have substantial yearly earnings before all benefits are withheld. For example, a 65 year old person whose monthly benefits rate is $500 could have earned $19,320 in 1985 before all benefits were withheld in 1985.

People who are required to file an annual report should have received a copy in the mail. If they have not, they should contact the Tacoma Social Security Office to get a copy. Those not required to file, but who with to do so, can also get a copy of the form at the Tacoma Office.

The 1986 exempt amounts are $7,800 for people 65-70 and $5,760 for people under 65 all of 1986.

More information about annual reports can be obtained at the Tacoma Social Security Office, located at 1208 South 10th St. The toll free telephone number is 1-800-562-6350.

Childrens Workshop

A series of four workshops for children, ages 9 to 14, and their parents brings the exhibitions, TREASURES FROM THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART, to life, transforming the galleries into an inviting, intriguing environment. Using improvisational theater and visual perception activities, theater and visual artists and art historians will transport participants to different periods of American history.

Each workshop will focus on a different theme in the exhibition: PORTRAITS, March 8; LANDSCAPES, March 15; HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES, March 22; and MODERN ABSTRACTIONS, April 5. Workshops will be held at the Seattle Art Museum Pavilion at Seattle Center, Saturdays, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Registration is limited to 30 participants for each of the workshops. For information and registration, call 447-4710.

MATURITY

Maturity is the ability to control anger and settle differences without violence or destruction.

Maturity is patience. It is the willingness to pass up immediate pleasure in favor of the long-term gain.

Maturity is perseverance, the ability to sweat out a project or a situation in spite of heavy opposition and discouraging setbacks.

Maturity is the capacity to face unpleasantness and frustration, discomfort and defeat, without complaint or collapse.

Maturity is humility. it is big enough to say, "I was wrong." And when right, the mature person need not experience the satisfaction of saying "I told you so."

Maturity is the ability to make a decision and stand by it. The immature spend their lives exploring endless possibilities, then they do nothing.

Maturity means dependability, keeping one's word, coming through in a crisis. The immature are masters of the alibi. They are the confused and disorganized. Their lives are a maze of broken promises, former friends, unfinished business and good intentions that somehow never seem to materialize.

Maturity is the art of living in peace with that which we cannot change.

Stefanie Wuifestieg Recently Served As Legislative Page

OLYMPIA -- Stefanie Wulfestieg, 15, a sophomore at Stadium High School, recently served as a legislative page for the Washington State House of Representatives. She was sponsored by Rep. Ruth Fisher, D-Tacoma, and is the daughter of Dr. Carl and Susan Wulfestieg of Tacoma.

Skillet Chicken with Biscuit Dumplings

Preparation time: 10 min. Cooking time: about 50 min.

Biscuit dumplings shorten the preparation time for this savory all-in-one dish. You will save money if you buy a whole chicken and cut it up yourself.

For 4 servings you will need:

- 1 frying chicken, 3 to 3½ lbs., cut up
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. paprika
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed chicken broth
- 1 Tbsp. instant minced onion
- ½ tsp. poultry seasoning
- ⅛ tsp. black pepper
- 3 cups frozen peas and carrots, thawed
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) refrigerated buttermilk biscuits
- Minced parsley for garnish

Preparation:

1. Sprinkle chicken pieces on both sides with salt and paprika.
2. Melt butter in a large skillet. Add chicken pieces and sauté until well browned on both sides.
3. Remove chicken and pour off drippings. Return chicken to skillet. Add enough water to broth to make 1½ cups. Pour over chicken.
4. Add minced onion, poultry seasoning and black pepper to pan. Bring to boiling. Cover and simmer 25 min.
5. Add vegetables and bring to boiling again. Top with biscuits. Simmer uncovered 10 min. Cover and simmer 10 min. longer or until dumplings are cooked through. Sprinkle with parsley.

MONEY-SAVING

For 2 servings: Half of the ingredients.

For 8 servings: Double the ingredients but use only 2½ cups broth and water.
